Site looks great so far! I like all the images you chose and how the layout feels consistent across the pages for each year. I really enjoy the pop of color on the hover states for the menu on the first page.

I think something to add could be some color in the pages for 2017, 2018 and 2019, specifically ones that play off of the theme. That would help add some variety to the pages. The color could be in the type, specifically the captions under the photos, because they are all black and white. The titles of each page could also be in color (ie. 2018:Heavenly Bodies).

The photo gallery looks great! I really like how it filters through on its own. I think adding a photo at the top of the page to the right of the text would be nice to introduce visuals before having to scroll.

Overall the structure of the site is really solid, I think just play around with some color that feels appropriate for each theme.
